I've never been a youth or family minister as such, and I am probably not well versed in the normal schools of thought to approaching our youth. However, this much I do know: the principles involved in a healthy Bible bowl program are fundamentally what any congregation should want for their young people. Consider the basic by-products of a successful Bible Bowl. (1) Bible Bowls encourage saturation reading of the Bible. (2) Bible Bowls promote critical thought concerning words and phrases in the Bible. (3) Bible Bowls require memory work. (4) Bible Bowls create interaction between young people and older role models. (5) Bible Bowls introduce our youth to likeminded people of their own age from other congregations.

Any one of these accomplishments would be a tremendous gain for our youth. To have all five of them in one activity that also manages to encourage fellowship among area congregations makes the Bible Bowl a truly special opportunity. I hope that the Glenpool congregation enjoys this special day and is benefited by it. And not only us! We must also thank and commend the five area congregations that made today possible. God bless our youth as they study His Word.
